

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIERS FORCED DOWN IN NORTH

Attempted Flight of Pacific Ended in Failure Today

Following Fliers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Outstanding events in the air today:

Pangborn and Herndon continued around the world, reaching Khabarovsk, Siberia, practically 23 hours behind the time of Post and Gatty at that point.

The Lindberghs completed final preparations at Churchill, Manitoba for the next hop into the north to Baker Lake on their vacation flight to the Orient.

Robbins and Jones forced down at Fairbanks, Alaska on their attempted non-stop refueling flight from Seattle to Tokyo for a $25,000 prize.

Amy Johnson made a brief stop at Chita, Siberia, and continued her flight from London to Tokyo.

Captain Frank M. Hawks, speed flier, took off from Augusta, Me., at 10:09 A. M. (EST) for Wheeling, W. Va., expecting to make the 625 mile hop in a little more than three hours.

Fairbanks, Alaska, Aug. 3—(AP)—The Monoplane "Fort Worth" landed here at 7:35 A. M. after failing in its second attempted non-stop Seattle-Tokyo flight.

No word of the whereabouts of the refueling ship had been received here this morning, although both planes were progressing well when they left Fairbanks last night.

Connor said he believed the refueler had damaged its landing gear on the beach at Unalakleet and had become lost, and the Fort Worth had to return to Fairbanks because it did not have enough fuel to reach Japan.

Landing at Fairbanks today of Reg. L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones marked the second failure in their attempt to make the first non-stop flight from the United States to Tokyo and to win the $25,000 prize offered by a Japanese newspaper.

Last month they were forced to start from Seattle but were forced down when on their way because unfavorable weather prevented a refueling operation, without they were unable to continue.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 3—(AP)—Belief that the refueling plane which was to give Reg. L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones its final load of gasoline over Bering Sea must have come to grief at Unalakleet was expressed today by W. W. Connor, Washington State Governor of the National Aeronautical Association, upon receipt of word that the Fort Worth had landed at Fairbanks.

The landing of the Fort Worth at Fairbanks was 26 hours 33 minutes after their take off from Seattle yesterday. This was about the same length of time the fliers were in the air on the first attempt to span the North Pacific early in July.

Then they landed at Solomon Beach, 30 miles east of Nome, after low ceilings, bad visibility and dumpy weather made final refueling contacts impossible, with the light motor then installed in their plane.

WORLD FLIERS PROGRESS.

Tokyo, Aug. 3—(AP)—A Rengo dispatch today said the American globe fliers, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, had arrived in Khabarovsk, Siberia.

The dispatch said the fliers landed Monday at 3:50 A. M. Khabarovsk time arriving after a 1,200 mile flight from Chita in eastern Siberia.

The fliers arrived while a heavy rain was falling and said they had flown through rain and mist most of the way from Chita. They said their greatest difficulty was in avoiding the mountain ranges.

Pangborn and Herndon were met by members of the Russian Civil Aviation Society, who had almost given them up for lost.

The fliers declared the weather over the Khingan mountain range was the worst they had experienced and much of the time they were forced to fly blind because of the heavy mist.

"It was a wonder we ever found Khabarovsk at all," said Pangborn. "Finding our way here was due not only to good luck but to splendid navigation."

An examination revealed one of the plane's wings was damaged but the fliers were confident that repairs could be made during the night and they hoped to take off tomorrow in pursuit of the world-girdling record of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

Both fliers were very tired after what appeared the most difficult and nerve wrecking journey. They were anxious, however, to ascertain the condition of the plane which Khabarovsk observers considered to have suffered somewhat from bad weather.

Some Oddities In Wire News Today From Various Parts

LIKED EXCITEMENT

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 3—(UP)—Jerry Evans, 19, arrester here, confessed to starting six fires in the business section last May.

Evans said he "liked to see the fire trucks run."

WANTS HIS CELL BACK

Detroit, Aug. 3—(UP)—Tired of standing in soup lines and sleeping in public flop houses, Paul Adams, 34, waited in the county jail today, hoping Joliet, Ill., prison officials would let him return, serve out his sentence, and eat hearty.

Adams walked into the sheriff's office and announced he was a parole violator who came to Detroit figuring to rob a few places. He found no suitable locations, he said, was hungry, and wanted to return to his old cell.

ARE OBLIGING

Canton, Ill., Aug. 3—(UP)—Edward Stevens and A. L. Slow, alleged bootleggers, are obliging and hospitable.

When Deputy Sheriffs raided their place near London, Mo. yesterday, Stevens and Slow helped destroy bottles and other equipment and then prepared the officers a meal.

They awaited arraignment in the county jail today. Both are formerly of Galesburg, Ill.

ONE TRIP AFTER ANOTHER

Boston, Aug. 3—(AP)—The steamship Winona County steamed out of Boston harbor today with an unhappy and unwilling member of its crew. Down in the engine room was Peter Russell, a man without a country.

England says he is an American. America says he is a Scotchman. As a result Russell has spent the last few weeks in trips back and forth between England and America without being permitted to land in either country. He told immigration officers today that he had a sister, Mrs. Sarah Campbell of Atlanta, Ga., and she should be able to help him.

The tangle developed when Russell shipped on the S. S. Bannock from Baltimore. He missed his ship after its stop at Cork and was sent back to the United States on the S. S. Bell Flower as an alien. When he got back here the immigration authorities declared he was an alien on these shores, too, so we went back to England on the Bell Flower.

The British authorities then sent him back here on the Winona County, and back he went today to England.

Pvt. Herbert Gerber, 20, Chicago, of Battery F, also was knocked from the truck. He suffered a sprained leg and other injuries.

Sudden Squall On Lake Michigan Is Cause Of Trouble

Evansville, Ill., Aug. 3—(UP)—Two youths and a girl narrowly escaped drowning in a sudden squall swept the lake and overturned their canoe. They clung to the craft for nearly an hour before being rescued by coast guardsmen. Three other persons were thrown from a storm pitched sailboat but were picked up immediately by a passing launch.

Hundreds of persons in canoes or small lake craft were endangered by the brief squall. Accompanying rains drenched thousands who had gone to the beaches to escape the heat.

MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO ACCIDENTS BADLY HURT FOUR

Chicagoans In Dixon Hospital Following Accident Sunday

Motorcycle and automobile accidents in Dixon and vicinity over the week end resulted in the painful injury of four and minor injury of two others, broken bones constituting the casualties of the more seriously hurt.

Mrs. Benjamin Litsig and Miss Jennie Singer, both of Chicago, are patients at the Dixon public hospital. The former with a broken collar bone and the latter with a fractured rib, the result of their automobile turning over on the Lowell Park road Sunday morning, when Mr. Litsig, driver, lost control of the car in the loose gravel on the highway and it turned over and completely around.

Litsig and his daughter, Miss Selma, escaped with cuts and minor bruises, but the car was badly wrecked.

Had Planned Picnic

The Chicagoans had come to Dixon to visit a sister of Mr. Litsig, a ward at the Dixon state hospital, take her for a picnic outing, and they had an elaborate picnic lunch packed in the car. Although he had made the trip a number of times before, Litsig missed his way in this city, discovering his error as he neared the junction of state route 26 and the Lowell Park Road.

He turned onto the park road to return to the colony when his car skidded in the gravel and turned over, scattering occupants and lunch over the highway. After the injured had been taken to the hospital for treatment, a call to Chief of Police Van Bibber, relating the loss of a valuable wrist watch and a pair of spectacles sent that officer and State Highway Officer Kenneth Church to the scene, and they found both missing articles unbroken. The damaged car was taken to a local garage for repairs.

Motorcycle Accident

Motorcycle accidents resulted in a badly wrenched and sprained ankle for George Loescher of this city, truck driver for the Dixon Fruit Co., and a broken arm for Joseph Dondero of Sterling, both of whom crashed into heavier vehicles while riding their power-cycles Sunday.

Dondero, who is well known by local motorcycleists, suffered his injuries when he collided with a truck at the intersection of Third street and Avenue A in Sterling, at about 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening, the force of the impact completely demolishing the motorcycle and badly damaging the front of the truck.

Loescher's injury was sustained in a collision between his motorcycle and a car owned by Walter Cromwell of this city and driven by Eugene Lebre, at Grand Detour last evening, which occurred shortly after the former, with Cecil Heatherington as a passenger, left the Heatherington home in that village.

Both occupants of the motorcycle were thrown from the machine, which was badly damaged, but Heatherington escaped with minor hurts, and was able to take his injured friend's place on the fruit company truck today. Both machines were considerably damaged.

LABOR CHIEF IN APPEAL TO JOHN D. JR. ON WAGES

Wage Cuts Of Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. Arouse Mathew Woll

New York, Aug. 3—(AP)—Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, has appealed to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to intervene in the proposed wage reduction to be put into effect by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, a Rockefeller controlled industry.

"It is, indeed, unfortunate," he said, "that the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company should have succumbed to a like error and should have been concerned along in reducing wage costs. With so many gigantic public benefactions to the credit of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., it is almost unbelievable and certainly most regrettable that his influence has not been brought to bear to stop the wage reduction policy put into effect by this company."

Although Mr. Hoover planned to return to the capital today, it was quite possible that he might postpone his departure until tomorrow.

Many Unemployed Are Under Thirty

Washington, Aug. 3—(AP)—Twenty-nine percent of America's unemployed were listed today by the census bureau as between 20 and 30 years old.

Unemployed between the ages of 20 and 25 totaled 414,633, and between 25 and 30, 293,901, respectively 17.1 and 12.1 percent.

Of the unemployed, 370,324 were women and the age groups corresponded.

PILOT TELLS OF STARTLING TIME HE HAD IN CLOUD

Plane Was Gripped By Air Currents; Thrown Wildly About

Cleveland, Aug. 3—(AP)—Pilot Ralph C. Wensinger, recounted today one of the most nerve-chilling, freakish airplane flights ever experienced and survived. He made the flight above the Cleveland airport yesterday while making his daily ascension to 18,000 feet to make weather tests for the United States weather bureau.

Wensinger said he drove his plane purposely into a cloud formation known as a "thunderhead." Once inside it, he said, tremendous air forces gripped his plane, took it out of his control, shot it upward at 1,400 feet a minute, pushed it sideways nearly 70 miles an hour, and then finally released the grasp to let the plane and occupant escape unharmed.

A thunderhead, Wensinger said, is a towering mass of cotton-like clouds which rise sometimes to a height of several miles.

"The only thing that kept me from being thrown out was my parachute, which caught against the cowl, and my heels which hooked under the seat," he said.

"I was away from the controls entirely, and the plane was blown sideways by the strong air current which spread horizontally over the top of the cloud."

He landed with only minor bruises.

HAD LONG FALL

Imlay City, Mich., Aug. 3—(AP)—Frederick Postal, 19, of Highland Park, Mich., fell 1,600 yesterday trapped in the cockpit of a airplane which had a broken wing, but escaped in time to break his fall with a parachute. He landed with only minor bruises.

King George Sees Man Drowned And Halts Regatta

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Aug. 3—(AP)—King George witnessed a tragedy today when the second mate of his own yacht, Britannia, was swept overboard and drowned. The yacht with his Majesty aboard was on the way to participate in the opening race of the Cowes regatta.

It was a boisterous day, with a choppy sea and the yachts were running close reefed at great speed.

As the cry, "man overboard" was raised, Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock hove to and other boats rushed to the vicinity. The Britannia's crew tossed a life buoy, but the seaman could not reach it and disappeared before boats could get to him.

He was Ernest Friend. He was married and had four children.

The race was called off, the King returned to the royal yacht Victoria and Albert and flags were half staffed on all the vessels gathered for the regatta.

Queen Mary also witnessed the accident from the Victoria and Albert.

Hoover Studies The Unemployment Due During Next Winter

Luray, Va., Aug. 3—(AP)—A further survey of ways and means to meet the prospective unemployment situation this coming winter will be made this week by President Hoover.

The chief executive yesterday conferred with Secretary Dook of the labor department at Camp Rappahannock, near here, on unemployment relief. A formal announcement of the results of the discussion is expected to be forthcoming after the President returns to Washington.

Dook is to submit a report to the President soon.

Although Mr. Hoover planned to return to the capital today, it was quite possible that he might postpone his departure until tomorrow.

Much Married Murderer To Be Taken To Wau-pun Today

Eagle River, Wis., Aug. 3—(UP)—George W. E. Perry, the 40-year-old former railroad brakeman who confessed to murdering seven women illegally after deserting his family in 1926, today faced life imprisonment as a result of his conviction on charges of slaying Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett, his fourth wife.

Sheriff Thomas McGregor and two deputies planned to take the much married Romeo to Waupun penitentiary today.

A jury returned a guilty verdict against Perry Saturday night, after deliberating less than two hours. The former brakeman was charged with first degree murder after Mrs. Hackett's body was found last Oct. 1 on Lac Du Flambeau Indian reservation, near where they had spent their honeymoon in July. The couple were last seen together on July 6 when they started through the woods hunting.

After leaving Wisconsin, Perry began a trip to California and married five women in rapid succession. He was living with his eighth wife when his arrest in California early this summer climaxed a nation-wide search. He continued to proclaim his innocence of the murder charges as he prepared to leave for prison. During the trial he said Mrs. Hackett left him after their walk in the woods of July 6, when he confessed he had been married before. He said she might have been killed by an Indian.

DETROIT FIGHTS TO RID CITY OF
GANGLAND'S GRIPEight-Months Drive's Results Are Outlined:
Many Indicted

Detroit, Aug. 3.—(AP)—An 18-month offensive against vice, official corruption and racketeering in the Detroit area has resulted in the imprisonment of seven men, the arrest of a score of others and the issuance of 30 indictments.

Police, prosecuting officials and a special grand jury have directed the offensive and their work has led them into four general paths. They are: The investigation of an elaborate plumbing and heating racket; a search for the perpetrators of 14 gangster assassinations which culminated in the slaying of radio announcer Gerald E. Buckley; the rounding up of a gang of big-time kidnapers who are believed to have collected more than $40,000 in ransom from wealthy citizens, and the investigation of vice and crime in the suburban community of Hamtramck.

The series of gangster slayings ending in the slaying of Buckley on July 30, 1930, paralleled the overthrow of the administration of former Mayor Charles Bowles and brought the grand jury into existence. The 22 members of the jury have questioned more than 200 witnesses in their efforts to apprehend leaders in the city's underworld.

Six officials and employees of the so-called Master Plumbers & Steamfitters Association have been indicted as a result of the jury's investigations of a racket which is said to have cost Detroit heating contractors more than $100,000 in property damage and "protection money." The defendants have not yet been tried.

The jury's investigations of the Buckley slaying and other killings resulted in the indictment of Ted Pizzino, Joe Bonmarito, Angelo Livacchi, Pete Licavoli and three unnamed persons on charges of assassinating the radio announcer, Pizzino, Livacchi and Bonmarito were tried and acquitted. A few months ago Pizzino and Livacchi were convicted of the slaying of William Cannon and George Collins, Chicago narcotic racketeers, July 3, 1930, and were sentenced to life imprisonment. Licavoli and the three unnamed persons indicted for the Buckley slaying have not been found. "Black Leo" Cellura, indicted with Pizzino and Livacchi for the Cannon-Collins slayings, also is now missing.

Five leaders of the notorious "Legs" Laman kidnaping gang have been sentenced to long terms and prosecuting officials believe the ring has been broken up. Laman, Stanley de Long and Henry Andrews, the three most prominent kidnapers, have been kept in police headquarters since their conviction for frequent questioning by the grand jury which is endeavoring to round up the remaining members of the gang.

Several months ago eight officials of the suburb of Hamtramck and a half dozen keepers of disorderly houses in the community were indicted by the grand jury on charges of graft. The defendants included Mayor Rudolph G. Tenerowicz. Their trials will be in September.

The grand jury continues in session.

The Twenty second annual reunion of the Dixon Society of So.

California, occurred Saturday atternoon, July 25, in the tropical setting of Echo Park, Los Angeles, and was particularly well attended. B.

O. Boothby and his committee had arranged matters with great success and everyone had a most enjoyable afternoon spent in reminiscence.

Charley Stittely had brought two watermelons and he carved them as scientifically as if he was dividing a new townsite into lots. L. O.

Bossemeyer contributed gallons of "Sparklets," the mineral water in which he is interested.

John F. Buphill as usual presided over the coffee making and his product was in great demand. Frank

Morris had printed big "Dixon" signs which were conspicuous markers all over the park. Judd Potter read the recent prize poem appearing in the "Telegraph."

Allo Vall Brierton and her fine young son deserted her neighbors,

the movie stars at Beverly Hills, long enough to renew old acquaintances as did Maud Selby, now a leading teacher at Glendale. The president appointed Mrs. C. H. Sar-

CLIPPING TOPPERS

THE NEWEST HAT IS PUSHED UP IN BACK AND DOWN OVER ONE EYE, SOMETIMES REVEALING HALF OF A WELL-WAVED COIFFURE.

That's Why She Became First Woman Editor of Metropolitan Daily

Washington, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Eleanor Patterson had rather "raise hell than raise vegetables" and that's why she became the first woman editor of a large metropolitan daily.

And that's why she's had a lot of fun editing the Washington Herald, Hearst newspaper, she confessed after her first year of editorial prerogative. Saturday was the anniversary of her venture.

The key to the varied and interesting career of this talented newcomer to the editorial offices, who has been known for a wit that enlivened dinner conversations, for an individuality and originality that has pleased Washington society, for a feud with Alice Roosevelt Longworth, for an insight as a novelist of social and political life, may be found in a recent incident.

A very conservative member of Washington society remarked to her at a dinner:

"Well, I see you've started to raise hell again. But you've raised hell all your life."

"Yes, I'd rather raise hell than vegetables," was the retort.

Mrs. Patterson discussed her newspaper experience with a twinkle in her eye.

Smiles At Memory

When I walked into the city room here just a year ago it was a shock and the men were absolutely disgusted. Me, a woman, as editor—

She smiled at the memory.

"But we've gotten along all right."

Mrs. Patterson has been a successful editor and she has been different.

For instance, those little front page editorials about social figures in Washington, including Alice Roosevelt Longworth. They set the Capital, unused to such things, to talking.

It attracted attention to the paper.

"I'm terribly ambitious for the paper," Mrs. Patterson said.

No hard-boiled newspaper editor ever had an office like hers, and it was the talk of the town. There are cushions at the windows, comfortable chairs of modernistic design, a luxurious and gaily-colored divan, shelves and shelves of books that one usually does not find in a newspaper office.

Is Very Unconventional

She is unconventional as an editor. One night she left a dinner to return to the office. Someone suggested she would catch the train of her evening gown in the presses, and asked why she didn't have an "office costume."

"An office costume"—a rippling laugh—"I told her if I had on an old sweater and no stockings I'd go down to work in that."

Mrs. Patterson confesses to employing the feminine touch in her dealings with heads of the various departments.

"When they get mad and get me in a corner—why I just become the bewildered female. It usually works."

She had a lot to learn.

"People can explain things to you, you know. But my regret is that I didn't start 25 years ago."

As it is, she began her newspaper career as a grand-mother. But one would never guess it.

She has a kindly word for newspapermen. She believes it a real career.

Praises Women

"Women make marvelous reporters. They have the dramatic instinct, the proper emotional touch. They often can get stories that men can't. There was that Capone story."

She referred to an interview she had with Al Capone, the Chicago gang leader, at his Miami Beach home—an assignment on which many men had failed. She just wandered in one day and got the story.

"Any woman who goes into newspaper work should start into it young and train for it just as a surgeon or a doctor studies and trains for his profession."

Mrs. Patterson intends to go on learning her job. Any newspaperman who talks with her knows she has the instinct.

"Stage people who leave the stage hanker to return to it. Newspaper people who leave the newspaper are the same. They want to get back. There's excitement, life, something new every day, comedy, intrigue, drama, real tragedy."

It was like coming back home for her to take an editor's chair. On her wall hang pictures of the distinguished newspaper family of which she is a member—her great grandfather, Joseph Patterson, who founded and published the New Philadelphia, Ohio, Observer more than 150 years ago; her grandfather, Joseph Medill, who founded the Chicago Tribune; her father,

Jeweled Touch Needed to Set Off Simple Cuts of Evening Gowns

These pictures illustrate Jean Paton's theory of jewel and fashion harmony. The sophisticated simplicity of the black satin dress shown at left is enhanced by the modern brooch of modern design. Center is a black tulle which is relieved by a diamond and emerald necklace. Another piece fashioned of the same gems is worn with the decollete back of the costume pictured at right. The jewels were especially designed by Van Cleef & Arpels.

Robert Patterson, publisher of the Tribune's her cousin, the late Senator Medill McCormick, publisher of the Tribune, which now is managed by her brother, Joseph Patterson, and Colonel R. R. McCormick.

"And my grandmother, Catherine Medill, was a typesetter on a newspaper. My grandfather met her in a newspaper office."

She is glowing in her description of the newspaper fraternity, men and women who get and write the news.

"They've got to have flash, intelligence, and a certain amount of ruthlessness, attributes of the artist. Their work must come first, always first, before everything else."

ROASTING CONTROL COMPLETES WORK THAT NATURE BEGINS

Full Charm of Coffee Blend Developed by Hills Bros.' Patented Process

Coffee, as it comes from the plantations, is not a finished product. Man must develop the flavor by roasting. Yet very often, man spoils the work that Nature began. For roasting is a delicate task. But there is one method that always roasts to perfection—Controlled Roasting, invented and patented by Hills Bros.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . . a little at a time . . . so a perfect, uniform roast is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time. This is directly opposite to ordinary methods of roasting in bulk. The advantages are seen, when you drink Hills Bros. Coffee. It has a flavor no other coffee has. For no others are roasted the same way. And the flavor never varies, either!

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Always fresh wherever and whenever you buy it. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., Chicago, Illinois.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Love" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 2.

The Golden Text was, "The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty; he will save, he will rejoice over thee with joy; he will rest in his love, he will joy over thee with singing" (Zechariah 3:17).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And the Lord direct your hearts into the love of God, and into the patient waiting for Christ" (II Thessalonians 3:5).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one Mind, one God and Father, one Life, Truth, and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent, war will cease and the true brotherhood of man will be established." (p. 467).

NOTICE!

ROASTING CONTROL COMPLETES WORK THAT NATURE BEGINS

Full Charm of Coffee Blend Developed by Hills Bros.' Patented Process

Coffee, as it comes from the plantations, is not a finished product. Man must develop the flavor by roasting. Yet very often, man spoils the work that Nature began. For roasting is a delicate task. But there is one method that always roasts to perfection—Controlled Roasting, invented and patented by Hills Bros.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . . a little at a time . . . so a perfect, uniform roast is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time. This is directly opposite to ordinary methods of roasting in bulk. The advantages are seen, when you drink Hills Bros. Coffee. It has a flavor no other coffee has. For no others are roasted the same way. And the flavor never varies, either!

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Always fresh wherever and whenever you buy it. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

THE TURTH NOT IN THEM.

One of the most difficult of all men to argue with is the man who having made an inaccurate statement, and having heard the statement completely refuted, calmly proceeds to make it right over again as if its inaccuracy had never been demonstrated.

That is what is happening these days in the case of the critics of the Hawley tariff bill.

Over and over again these critics declare that this law has "slaughtered" our export and import trade.

As to our export trade, the records prove that 19 representative countries comprising our leading customers purchased 20% of their imports from the United States last year under the present tariff, while their purchases from us during the normal years 1924-1927 inclusive, before the present tariff was enacted, averaged 20.7% of their total imports.

In the matter of imports, custom house records show that during the calendar year 1930, under the present tariff, our dutiable imports from Europe declined 33% while our imports from Europe which are on the free list declined 41%. That is, free imports declined more than dutiable imports, which certainly shows that our new tariff was not a factor in our import trade.

These facts—utterly refuting the charge that the new law has "slaughtered" our export and import trade—have been repeated again and again. And yet, the silly charge continues to be made. What can be done with men so intellectually dishonest as to repeat statements which have been absolutely demonstrated to be untrue?

NEW DEMANDS ON CHARITY.

Mr. Average American might just as well get ready now to give just twice as much to charity this fall as he gave last fall.

Allen T. Burns, executive director of the National Association of Community Chests and Councils, having completed a five-weeks' study of 184 principal American cities and towns, reports that the relief burden next winter will be double that of last year.

The demands on charity, in fact, will be so great that private philanthropy cannot possibly meet them, he says. City and county governments will have to make extensive appropriations if the need is to be met.

One of the things that makes the situation worse is that private savings of the unemployed are becoming exhausted. Jobless men who did not need help last winter will need a great deal of it this winter. The public will have to give as it has never given before.

FRANCE AND DISARMAMENT.

The French assertion that France has reduced its armaments to the lowest possible point reflects once more the unshakable insistence on "security" which has been the high-light of French foreign policy ever since the war.

France is generally regarded as the most militaristic nation in Europe today, and her claim that her military forces cannot possibly be reduced any further will doubtless be received with considerable skepticism. Nevertheless, from the French viewpoint that claim is nothing less than the truth.

The French are openly skeptical of war-prevention measures. As long as was a possibility, France is determined to be in better condition to meet it than any possible competitor. And as long as that spirit prevails, it is hard to see how any disarmament scheme can make very much headway.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

All of a sudden wee Scowly cried, "Hey, come on, bunch, let's walk inside this great mass of big ape-ape leaves. It is like a jungle land. We will do the best that we can do, although it is hard to plow on through. Perhaps, if we are going in, we'd best walk hand in hand."

"I wonder if it is safe in there," said wee Clowly. "If not, I don't care to take a chance on getting lost. Who is going to lead the way?" "I will," replied the Travel Man. "We will go in as far as we can. And then we will come right out again, ere night o'ertakes the day."

And so they walked slowly along. The great big ape-ape leaves were very strong and made the hiking difficult, but, gee 'twas lots of fun. They all were tickled when they found that under foot it was safe and sound. Said Copy, "Walking's not so bad, but I would hate to run."

When about a half a mile inside wee Carpy stopped and very loudly cried, "Gee here is a dandy place to rest. It is cool as it can be. Upon leaves, we can sit. That walk was great. I am feeling fit! The leaves have grown so thick in here, that's all that we can see."

The rest made everyone feel fine and soon they formed into a line and slowly walked right out again, into the very bright sunlight. The Travel Man then said, "I know of one more place where we should go. I'll lead you to a big flame tree, which is a wondrous sight."

Soon, in an open space they all found the flame tree. When they gathered around they noticed that the limbs spread wide and all the leaves were red. Beneath the tree there was much shade and that is where all the Tinkles played. "The red leaves gave the tree its name," the Travel Man said.

(The Tinkles get another big thrill in the next story.)

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

RETURN OF ROOT MISSION

On August 3, 1917, the American Mission to Russia, headed by Elihu Root, returned to the United States after a month's visit. On this same day the Russian provisional government declared illegal Finland declaration of independence; the Russian foreign minister, Terestchenko, resigned and the military governor of Petrograd, General Erdell, was assassinated.

Root, in a statement issued a few weeks previous to this said: "We found no organic or incurable malady in the Russian democracy. Democracies are always in trouble, and we have seen days just as dark in the progress of our own."

"We must remember that a people in whom all constructive effort has been suppressed for so long cannot immediately develop a genius for such quick action. The solid, admirable traits in the Russian character will pull the nation through the present crisis."

CHOOSING A SANATORIUM

In tuberculosis, as in practically all branches of medical science, each case must be considered in its individual setting.

It is, however, possible to project a few general rules on where to cure.

Thus, one should cure as near to home as possible. One thrives best in the atmosphere to which one is acclimated. Closeness to home implies less traveling.

Proximity to one's family and friends means better contacts, less loneliness, less worry as to why they do not write, etc., and fewer opportunities for melodramatic self-pity.

Economic considerations are also of great importance. When it is first discovered that a member of a family is ill with tuberculosis, in the urge of anxiety and eagerness the family tends to rush into economic recklessness. Nothing is too good for the sick. Expense is not considered.

Such a reaction might be warranted in an acute illness, but tuberculosis is famous for its chronicity. It is properly called a siege warfare, and in a siege one must conserve one's resources.

When the available funds are substantial and not limited, there might be warrant in choosing some of the better appointed and more luxuriously operated sanatoriums or cure places, but for the ordinary family, with the ordinary income, the place chosen should be the one

LONG DISTANCE FOR ANYONE

Business has long recognized the telephone as a saver of time and money. Long Distance was developed to fill the requirements of the busy man for fast and complete interchange of messages between communities.

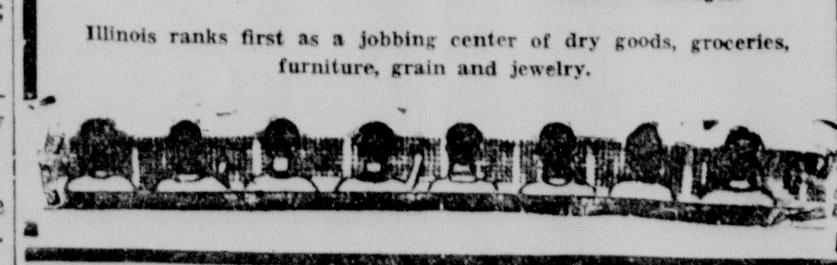

At home the service has increased in favor as the family circle widened. Children away at school have made many parents familiar with the ease and economy of Long Distance.

Better roads have brought more frequent travel and arrangements for trips are made by telephone.

In choosing an institution for taking the cure, one should consider the race, religion and the economic and social levels of the majority of the patients curing there.

In general, individuals find their racial, religious and economic brethren more congenial and easier to get along with than others.

DIXON LEGION'S PITCHER ENTERS "HALL OF FAME"

Shut Out Oregon Without A Hit Sunday: Dixon Won Game, 12-0

John Cox, brilliant little pitcher of the Dixon American Junior baseball team, champions of the Thirteenth district, entered baseball's hall of fame Sunday afternoon at Oregon, when he held Oregon to a shutout in the first game of the Oregon Junior team hitless and scoreless, Dixon winning 12 to 0. The little Dixon pitcher allowed but two walks and but three Oregon lads reached first base, the other on an error by Bush.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

By DIXON STEWART
United Press Staff Correspondent
New York, Aug. 3.—(UP)—The rest of the world may have conceded the American League pennant to the Philadelphia Athletics, but Walter Johnson and his Washington Senators have not yet relinquished hope of participating in the 1931 world series.

With the season two-thirds completed the Senators are ten full games behind the Athletics, but they still have a chance to nose out their rivals and they are determined to keep up the fight until they are definitely eliminated.

The Senators have played championship ball throughout the season, winning 63 of their first 100 games, for a .630 average and even a slight slump for the Athletics might still enable Washington to take top honors.

Philadelphia's lead was cut to ten games yesterday when the Senators won their consecutive game from the leaders, 10 to 6. Alvin Crowder was the hero of the victory, holding the Athletics in check for the final eight innings after he had pounded Sam Jones for four runs in the first inning. The Senators matched Philadelphia's four runs in the first with an assault on Hank MacDonald and added four more off Hoyt in the second inning to clinch the contest.

New York's third place Yankees broke even with Boston, winning the first game of a doubleheader, 4 to 1, and losing the second, 1 to 0. Charlie Ruffing pitched the Yankees to victory in the opener but George Pipgras lost a decision to Cy Moore in the night-cap. Each pitcher allowed only three hits with Pipgras losing when Catcher Jorgens dropped a throw to cut off Boston's winning run at the plate in the eighth inning.

The Cleveland Indians strengthened their hold on fourth place by defeating St. Louis, 9 to 4 and 11 to 9. Wes Ferrell held the Browns well in check in the first game and Hudlin and Harder outlasted Stewart and Kinsey in the second contest.

Detroit defeated Chicago, 8 to 4, in the other American League game, Art Herring holding the White Sox to 9 scattered hits while his mates pounded Thomas and Caraway for 12.

National League competition was featured by the New York Giants' advance to second place. The Giants passed the Chicago Cubs by scoring a double victory over Boston, 4 to 2 and 6 to 2, while the Cubs were dropping a 6 to 2 verdict to the league leading St. Louis Cardinals.

Paul Derringer held Chicago to 10 hits in scoring his thirteenth victory of the season but the victory was costly for the Cards with Jimmy Collins, rookie first baseman, breaking his ankle. The injury probably will keep Collins out for the balance of the season.

Brooklyn strengthened its hold on fourth place by breaking even with Philadelphia, losing the first game, 5 to 2, and winning the second 7 to 5.

Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati, 3 to 0, for the Pirates fourth consecutive shutout victory, with Ervin Brame holding the Reds to 5 hits.

Yesterday's hero—Wiley Moore, who pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 1 to 0 victory over the New York Yankees. Moore allowed his former teammates only three hits.

RIP COLLINS HURT

St. Louis, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Jimmy (Ripper) Collins, brilliant young first baseman of the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals, injured in Chicago yesterday, likely will be able to return to duty in about three weeks.

First reports indicated he would be out for the season.

Collins returned here today and will be examined by the Cardinals' physician, Dr. Robert F. Hyland. Collins said X-ray pictures taken in Chicago showed the injury was a severely sprained left ankle, and not a chipped bone as had been feared. He was able to limp about without assistance, but the ankle was badly swollen. Collins was injured in the first inning of yesterday's game against the Cubs and had to be carried from the field.

"Sunny Jim" Bottomley, the Cards' first baseman until Collins took his job away from him, returned to active duty.

SHIRES NOT A CUB

Chicago, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires, probably will be back in the major leagues next season, but just as probably not with the Chicago Cubs.

President William Veeck today said he had virtually given up the idea of buying the first baseman from Milwaukee of the American Association, which is said to want $35,000 and two players for such a deal.

Sports Parade

New York, Aug. 3.—(UP)—It will be a downright shame if Maxie Rosenbloom loses to Jimmy Slattery in their 15-round bout in Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Wednesday night for the Harlem crown, as Maxie is sometimes called, is boxing's one colorful champion.

What is more, Maxie's defeat would be as severe blow to those folks whose conscience bothers them on the morning after the night before. We have been told by several of "those folks" that few things are as comforting in such a dark hour as to turn to the sports pages and read where Maxie taxed directly from a night club, slipped off his evening clothes, executed a few steps of the rumba, and then hopped blithely in the ring to knock some opponent's head off.

We have been told that such reading is doubly comforting when Maxie's opponent happens to be some earnest young man who had trained for a month on nothing more stimulating than milk and who thought a night club was something policemen tapped tax payers on the head with.

Of course, Maxie's color is not of the type that makes him in great demand as a speaker at a Boy Scouts' rally or a university club, but then who wants their fighters to know the joys of the compass or three pounds overweight because their head is filled with Shakespeare and carefully memorized quotations from the lake poets?

Maxie's color is not confined to his night club life and ability to train on the dance floor while floating through a stately polka or stopping the latest craze with a blue-eyed, baby-faced blonde. A large share of the color comes from his antics on the canvas and those ropes. Here he is at one and the same time a silly, laughing clown and a highly efficient piece of fighting machinery. He throws gloves from any and all angles and apparently is tireless, no matter how fast the pace or long the route. His fists never are at rest and their very activity forms a well-nigh perfect defense.

Wednesday night's bout will mark the seventh time Maxie and Slattery have met. Some of the boys are betting that before they call it quits Maxie and Jimmy will have surpassed the record run of Able's Irish Rose.

Henri Cochet's intention to turn pro in the fall recalls the mighty list of sports champions who have quit the amateur ranks in the "gold rush" of the last few years. Golf lost two of its out-standing performers in Jones and on Elm. Tennis, soon to claim Cochet, already had lost Tilden, Richards and Suzanne Lenglen, just to mention a few.

Then there was Johnny Weissmuller, Gertrude Ederle, Martha Norelius, and Helen Wathright in swimming; Jim McMillen, Lew Macaluso, Joe Savoldi, Gus Sonnenberg, and a host of others in wrestling; Red Grange and Chris Cagle in football; add Warren, Steve Hamas, Alie Wolff, and a host of others in boxing. And, of course, the hundreds of college men who turned to professional baseball for fame and money, especially the latter.

PITTSBURGH AND WASHINGTON SET PACE LAST WEEK

Pirates Took Five Out Of Seven Starts: Senators Five Of Six

New York, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Washington's Senators, who still have hopes of heading Philadelphia in the American League pennant race and the Pittsburgh Pirates, who are rallying after a poor early season start, set the pace for major League baseball teams during the week beginning Monday, July 27 and ending Sunday August 2.

Washington won five of its six games against Philadelphia and Cleveland to advance to within ten games of the league lead, while Pittsburgh won five of its seven starts to move within 1-2 game of fifth place in the National League standings.

Washington's only setback was a 6 to 0 shut out at the hands of Wesley Farrell, Cleveland pitching ace, but the Senators offset this by closing the week with two consecutive victories over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Pittsburgh lost two games to New York, 6 to 2 and 5 to 4, but closed the week with four consecutive shut out triumphs over New York and Cleveland. Pittsburgh pitchers allowed only 18 hits in the four big games and established a record of 42 consecutive scoreless innings.

Cubs Drop To Third
New York's Giants were the only other National League team to finish the week with a percentage better than .500, winning five and losing three to regain second place. The league leading St. Louis Cards broke even with three victories and three defeats, while the Chicago Cubs won only three of seven starts and dropped to third place.

In the American League Philadelphia took second honor for the week with four victories and two defeats, and the Boston Red Sox also were above the .500 mark with five victories and three defeats. Eleven shut-out games were pitched during the week with eight of them in the National League. Moore of the Red Sox and Spencer of the Pirates turned in the best pitching performances of the week with three hit shut-outs against the New York Yankees and the Cincinnati Reds respectively, while Lisenski of the Red Sox also pitched a three hit game to beat Detroit, 8 to 1.

PIRATES SET RECORD

Pittsburgh, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, although apparently trapped in the second division of the National League, today boasted a record that has not been equalled since 1903—four straight shut-out victories.

When the last man went out in the Pittsburghers' 3 to 0 win over the Reds at Cincinnati yesterday, it marked the 40th straight inning in which opponents failed to score. Followers of the Pirates, revealing in the sensational streak of their club, today were recalling the Bucs of another year—when Wagner, Ritzche, Clark and others were idols of fandom—for oddly enough, it was the Pirates who set up the record of six straight while winning the pennant in 1903.

The Pirates that year ran their string to 56 innings, one contest breaking off in the sixth on account of rain.

The present unusual streak got under way last Wednesday, in the third game of the series with the New York Giants. The McGrawmen, with a leading margin, failed to count through the last four innings.

Meine pitched one inning, Osborn two and Swetonic one.

The following day Larry French held the Giants scoreless, with four hits to win 9 to 0. Friday Remy Kremer allowed Cincinnati only six safeties and won 5 to 0. Saturday Spencer held the Reds to three hits and the Pirates won 1 to 0.

Ervin Brame was the victor yesterday. He allowed five hits. Contrasting the second division outfit which performed this outstanding feat, Fred Clark's swash-buckling champions of 1903 performed many sensational stunts, but their string of six straight whitewash victories was one of the most remarkable.

The 1903 streak started on June 1. Christy Mathewson beat the Pirates, 10 to 2, that day, but Ed Doherty held the Giants scoreless in the last two innings.

The following day Deacon Phillippe turned the Giants back, 7 to 0. Sam Leever made it two shut-outs in a row by beating the Giants 5 to 0. Irvin Wilhelf beat Boston, 5 to 0, June 5, and Doherty took Boston over the next day 9 to 0. Phillippe next beat Boston, 4 to 0, in a game that was called at the end of the sixth inning because of rain.

The Pirates were idle Sunday, June 7, but the next day Sam Leever registered another shutout. This time the Phillies were the victims and the score was 2 to 0.

That was six in a row, but the twirling schoolmaster had to share honors with Honus Wagner, who saved the game for Pittsburgh with a brilliant leaping catch with two on and two out in the ninth.

STUCK BY LIGHTNING

Morris, Ill., Aug. 1.—(UP)—Clarence Olson, Maxon, Ill., was in a critical condition in a hospital today from injuries suffered when he was struck by a bolt of lightning in a barn yesterday. Besides bruises on his body and head, the lightning nearly tore one of Olson's ears from his head. He will recover, doctors said.

Ten Famous Triumphs Turf History Recalled

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series on "Ten Famous Triumphs of the Turf," and tells how Morvich, the Silent, won the Derby.

By MAX RIDDLE

The last and greatest victory of Morvich, sometimes called "the Silent," was his superb running of the Kentucky Derby in the year, 1922. Autocrat of the two-year-olds, in 1921, Morvich had carried the orange and jade silks of Benjamin Block to 11 victories in many starts. As "Derby Day" approached—May 13, 1922—and, even though he had not been asked to face the barrier in a warm-up race, Morvich seemed destined to carry the trappings of his might to -three-year-old ruler-ship.

Morvich was a horse to fire the imagination. Wherever men gathered to discuss horses and athletes, Morvich was the subject of conversations and arguments.

Morvich got his peculiar name from a character in a Russian novel, and his career was as romantic as that of any Russian fabled in history. Bred on the California breeding farms of A. B. Spreckels, he was brought to New York where he won a selling race on opening day at Jamaica.

That day he was successively under the ownership of three different men, being sold twice. His first selling price was quoted as $4500 and later as $7000. Benjamin Block bought him for $7000. The man who sold Morvich to Mr. Block must have thought that he had reaped a handsome profit, but Morvich, in less than a year, was worth several hundred thousand dollars.

Morvich got his nickname, "the silent one" because of his unusual habits. When night fell, he would become as silent as a corpse. He never kicked the sides of his stall as horses often do at night, and he seldom stirred. Old Charles White, his negro friend and stable boy, used to have to glance into his stall occasionally to reassure himself that the horse was still there.

Morvich's two-year-old record was amazing. He won 11 consecutive races—every start, in fact—broke like the wind, and was ahead at every post in the race. His speed was stunning and apparently unbeatable. The training methods used in preparing the great horse were as unusual as was the horse himself. Morvich was sent into his races with no warming up, he seemed to enjoy running his races cool.

The public made Morvich a 5-8 favorite to win the Derby, but the son of Runnymede and Hymir, had a harder task than the odds showed. Two-year-old champions seldom last to win the great events that occur in their second year of racing. Heavy campaigning, combined with high speed, often causes the breakdown of a fine colt.

Moreover, Col. E. R. Bradley had four fine horses, and had signified his intention of entering at least three of them. It was expected that one or two of his horses would be used to kill off the son of Runnymede, while the others went on to win.

Colonel Bradley was so confident of victory that he predicted that his colts would finish "one, two, three." Colonel Bradley met with some hard luck, however, as Banker Brown and Busby American were found to be ailing. Banker Brown was scratched, but Busby American was hurriedly patched up and sent to the post.

The usual large Derby crowd was present as Morvich, accompanied by nine other high class three-year-olds went to the post. They were sent away with unexpected speed. So quickly did they leave the post, that there has always been some doubt as to what position Morvich broke from. Some say that he broke second; others that he was last to leave the barrier. However that may be, Morvich took the lead with astonishing speed. As the horses passed the stands for the first time, a roar went up from the crowd, as it was seen that the orange and jade silks were in front of the field by a full length.

Morvich was never headed. The field found itself chasing a will o' the wisp. Morvich ran easily, under restraint most of the time, and whenever a horse challenged, Jockey Johnson merely let his mount have his head for a moment. The orange and jade silks would then jump into an even greater lead.

As the son of Runnymede passed under the wire, he looked as though he could keep up his pace indefinitely.

ly, and he returned to the judges' stand still playful and full of life. Bet Mosie, one of the Bradley entries, was second by two lengths, and John Finn was third by half a length.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

I asked Gene Tunney for his slant on the heavyweight fracas, which he watched with much interest this summer from the comparative comfort of the ringside with his friends.

"I should say that events demonstrate Max Schmeling to be a first class fighter, entitled to recognition as champion," he remarked, after surveying the Walker-Sharkey proceedings. "Schmeling may never be sensational, but he is an excellent workman, possessed of fine short punch and sufficient stamina to carry him along at an improved pace. "Sharkey has shown nothing to warrant the belief he will ever be a champion. He lacks the inspiration. Walker is dead game. Carnera? Why comment on him?"

HANDSOME WEST COAST ATTORNEY TO TRIAL TODAY

Accused Of Slaying Ex-Political Boss And Prominent Editor

By GEORGE H. BEALE
United Press Staff Correspondent
Los Angeles, Aug. 3.—(UP)—David H. Clark, handsome young attorney, is scheduled to go to court here today in what is expected to be Los Angeles' most sensational murder trial since Edward Hickman was convicted of the murder of Marion Parker.

Clark, recently a candidate for a municipal judgeship and for seven years a deputy in the district attorney's office, will face the charge of having slain Herbert Spencer, prominent locally as a newspaperman and political magazine writer.

The brilliant attorney also is accused of having killed Charles Crawford, for years political boss of Los Angeles, but he will not be tried on that count, at least not until after the Spencer case has been concluded.

Political Flavor
The Spencer case has a distinct political flavor, since Spencer, co-editor of the political Critic of Criticism, and Crawford, dabbling in politics after a brief retirement, were shot down together on the afternoon of May 20, less than two weeks before the day people voted on Clark as a candidate for judge.

The tremendous interest in the case is attributed to the prominence of the principals; the charges, often repeated, that half of the politicians and underworld characters fear what Clark may say and have tried to cover facts in the case; and the fact that Clark has advanced no defense as yet, an almost unprecedented procedure in Los Angeles criminal cases.

Clark is a very popular figure. He looks and dresses like a motion picture hero. In his seven years in the district attorney's office he has won many important cases. He successfully prosecuted Albert M. Marco, once the vice lord of Los Angeles, on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder. More recently he gained the conviction on theft charges of Daisy De Voe, former secretary to Clara Bow.

Whereabouts Mystery
Clark went to Agua Caliente the week-end before the slaying. He returned to his home here Monday and after greeting his young wife left to go to his office. His whereabouts from that time until the next afternoon have not been traced. Tuesday afternoon he entered a store and bought a revolver. His next positively known movement was his surrender on Thursday night, May 21, after the district attorney's office announced it wanted him for the double murder.

Meantime on Wednesday afternoon a young man entered Crawford's real estate office on Sunset Boulevard in Hollywood.

The man, according to the district attorney's office, was young Dave Clark. Crawford was back in the political game attempting to regain the prominence he once held when he was credited with running the entire city administration.

A few minutes after the man entered Crawford's office, Spencer, then writing devastating political articles for the Critic of Criticism, also came in.

Triple Conference
The three men conferred in an inner office for a half an hour. Then there were quick shots and the slayer ran out a side entrance. After him came Mr. Spencer, but Spencer was mortally wounded, and fell on the sidewalk and died.

Crawford's secretary, Miss Lucille Fisher, and his bodyguard, Mr. George Crawford, his brother, carried Spencer into the inner office and then went into the inner office to find Crawford mortally wounded. Crawford died three hours later without having revealed the name of his slayer.

Although Crawford carried a gun, according to his brother, his gun was not found in the inner office nor has it been found since. Neither has the gun of the slayer. Miss Fisher and other office employees were said by the district attorney's office to have identified Clark.

Before this asserted identification was made, the first thing District Attorney Byron Pitts did was to call in for questioning Guy McAfee, a former police officer and credited with having taken over the under-

Uncle Sam's Dreadnaught of the Skies

The Story of the Navy's "AKRON," World's Mightiest Airship

Copyright 1931 by NEA Service, Inc.

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service
(Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)
Akron, O.—Launching of the U. S. S. Akron here will mark the end of a series of exacting constructional tests and the beginning of a new series of operation tests designed to prove the complete safety of Uncle Sam's sky dreadnaught.

These operation tests will determine whether the world's greatest airship really answers to the specifications and designs of the engineers who built it.

First will come the dock test or shed trials, which will be made before the Akron is allowed to leave its dock.

Next will be a series of trial flights in which the ship will be maneuvered under certain specified conditions prepared by the engineers.

"In the dock," explains Dr. Karl Arnstein, designer of the Akron, "our chief purpose will be to determine the agreement of our stress calculations with actual stresses on the ship. We shall do this by bending the ship first up and then down. Loads on both ends in order to bend this will be done by concentrating loads on both ends in order to bend her down and by concentrating a heavy load in her center to bend her upward."

Plan Intensive Tests
"Then all control lines running to the rudders, the elevators, ballast bags, gas cells, etc., will be tested. Every instrument and electrical device will be tested."

"All gas cells will be inflated to various proportions and tested for their ability to retain gas. This will be done by measuring the purity of each cell and of all cells combined." Still in the dock, statically—that is, by the lift of the helium in its cells alone—and observations will be taken on all the phases that enter into its static equilibrium or "trim."

Must Satisfy Engineers
Then, thoroughly satisfied with the static performance of the Akron, the engineers will permit it to be taken out on its first trial flight.

This first venture out of the huge dock will be one of the most ticklish and exacting operations in the entire schedule of tests. For the movement of a huge airship like the Akron in and out of its berth involves a very difficult job of ground handling.

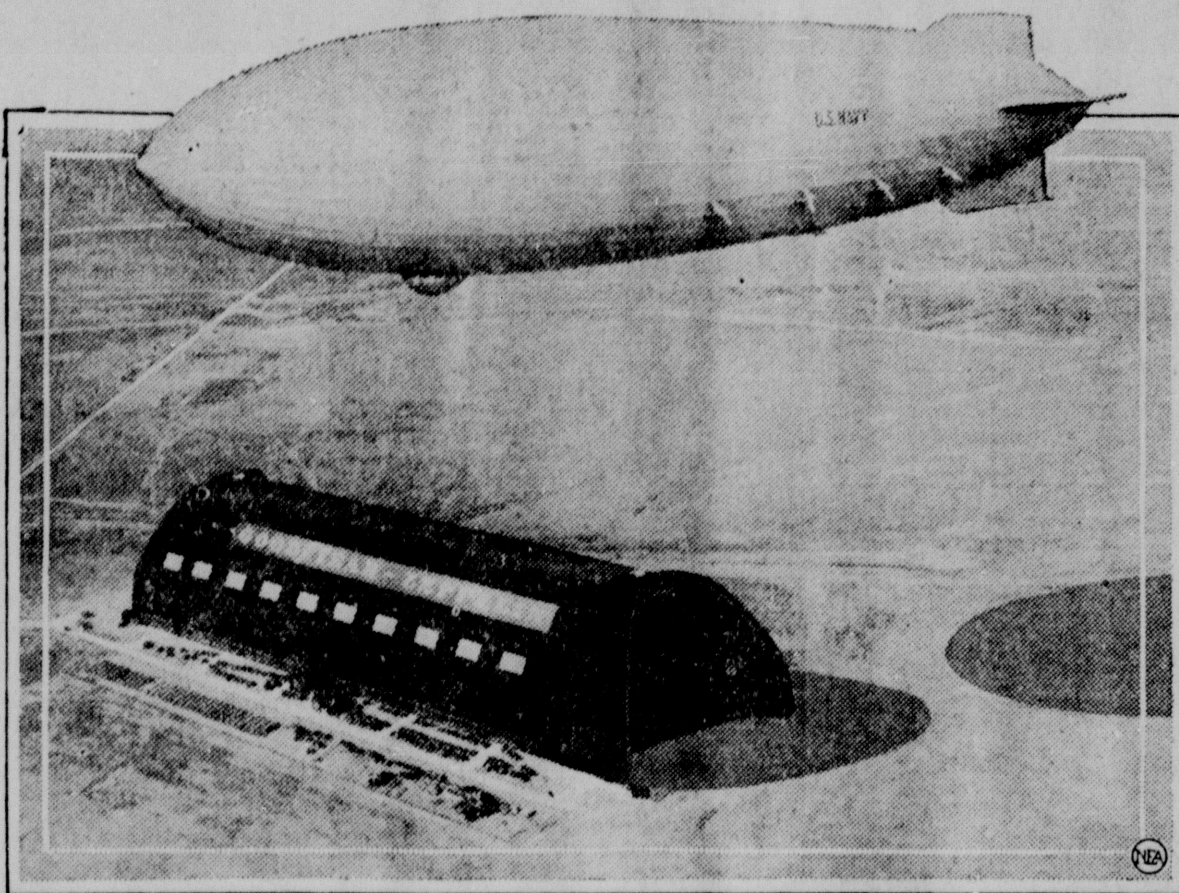

First, the 115-ton mobile mast will be moved up to the nose of the ship and the Akron's cone made fast into the cup on top of the mast.

The heavy side handling cars on rails 200 feet apart will be run alongside the Akron at the stern and cables attached between them and the ship.

World reels after Clark sent Marco to San Quentin.

The Critic of Criticism had been attacking McAfee viciously as the "Capone of Los Angeles" and McAfee and Crawford were said not

HOW THE AKRON WILL LOOK WHEN IT TAKES THE AIR—In this remarkable composite picture, the artist has combined a picture of the U. S. S. Akron with that of its dock, or hangar, to show how the mighty airship will look when it takes the air on its maiden flight over its huge "nest" that is the largest single room in the world.

"SAFE" GAS USED IN ALL U. S. AIRSHIPS

Helium, by-product of natural gas wells in Texas and Oklahoma, is the lifting gas for America's airships.

Although it is not as efficient as hydrogen, the lightest gas obtainable, it has its advantage over hydrogen in being non-inflammable. A thousand cubic feet of this gas will lift 69.6 pounds, making the available lift of the 6,500,000 cubic foot Akron about 450,000 pounds.

The 6,500,000 cubic foot helium-inflated Akron is equal in capacity to a 5,000,000 cubic foot hydrogen-filled airship.

Ground Crew to Help

Then will come the slow procession out of the dock.

Most likely, during this first venture out a trained ground handling crew will be on hand to take hold of the ship in case anything goes wrong with the mechanical apparatus.

to friendly. McAfee also was reported to be supporting Clark in his judgeship race.

McAfee immediately proved an alibi, having been in the Hall of Justice, near Pitts' office, at the

Perhaps, the first time the Akron sticks its nose out of the dock it may not even be released for any sort of flight.

Once assured of the proper methods for the handling of the Akron on the ground, the engineers will proceed with the trial flights.

One of these flights will be made over a predetermined route and for a very limited distance, to determine such things as the turning qualities of the ship and its maneuverability, or how easily it responds to the various controls.

In another flight the amount of dynamic lift will be ascertained, that is, the load which the ship can carry under the power of its motors and beyond the lift furnished by its buoyant gas.

Another flight will enable the engineers to determine the rate at which the ship will be able to ascend. Here the new type of propellers, which tilt from horizontal to vertical position, will be tested under various conditions.

Finally, a special speed trial flight will be made over a specified route.

very time someone was sending Crawford and Spencer to their sudden deaths.

After his conference with McAfee Pitts announced that Clark was the murderer.

In this, as well as in other of the flight tests, the motors will be tried out in various combinations, some of them being kept idle at times while the rest are made to propel the ship forward or backward. At other times, all the eight motors, with a total of 4800 horsepower, will push the huge Zeppelin to its utmost.

During all these flights, under command of Lieutenant Commander C. E. Rosendahl, various observations will be taken for comparison with the calculations made in the original designs.

Headed by Rear Admiral George C. Day, a navy trial board will make up the government's observers. Captain H. E. Shoemaker of Lakehurst will be senior lighter-than-air expert on the ship.

After this board has made its reports of the trials to the Secretary of the Navy the Akron will be taken over and flown toward its new home at Lakehurst, N. J.

NEXT: Ground handling and docking of an airship as long as a city block and as high as a 14-story building.

Clark Gave Self Up

The next day Clark telephoned the district attorney's office, said he understood he was wanted and went down town and surrendered. He refused then to say anything about any facts in the case and he has refused to speak of them to this day.

"I am not guilty as charged," was the only defense he attempted.

He refused to say what happened to the gun he bought, he refused to admit, or deny, that he was in Crawford's office, he refused to admit, or deny, that he shot either or both men, he refused to say where he was during the time he was absent from his home.

It was learned that Clark's bank account was overdrawn because of expenditures for his campaign.

He came into court a few days after the shooting to be given a preliminary hearing. The courtroom was crowded and his entrance drew a tremendous applause. He asked for bail and was admitted to $100,000 bail.

This was said to be the first time a man accused of a double murder ever was admitted to bail in Los Angeles. It was interesting, too, that the bail was posted for Clark almost immediately.

Clark's popularity was shown again in the election June 2. He polled almost 70,000 votes, while his successful opponent drew only 20,000 more.

Immediately after Clark surrendered District Attorney Pitts announced that because every one in his office was friendly with Clark that a special prosecutor, Joe Ford, had been selected.

Ford is one of the best known criminal attorneys in Los Angeles and formerly was a prosecutor. Ford immediately fought with the Los Angeles police, claiming they were lax in running down clues and evidence in the case.

Spencer and Crawford each had a number of safety deposit boxes and Spencer once published the fact that he believed his life was in danger and that if he was killed the name of his slayer would be found in his box.

It was almost a week before officials got around to inspecting all these safety deposit vaults and they were found to be empty then.

On this apparent laxity and on the fights between officers of the district attorney's office and the police were formed the charges of a big "cover-up."

Clark engaged W. I. Gilbert and Leonard Wilson as his counsel and immediately the great legal battle started.

Because Clark refused to talk or to make known his defense, Ford announced he would be tried first for shooting Spencer and then for shooting Crawford. Clark attempted to force trial of both counts at one time but was not successful.
